The Fiji Islands.

A correspondent writes on the 9th November:—In my last I told you of the proposed Constitution of Bau. Since writing, it has been read and translated to Tuakambau, at a meeting which was at first meant to be private and consistential; but the residents hearing that something important was taking place, crowded the reading-room, and the proposed consultation verged into a public meeting. Whether the favored few intended doing anything towards making the Constitution law is not known, but as they invited Mr. Thatcher to represent the Press, it is probable their intentions were honorable, as the lovers say. The old man of Bau attended and listened gravely to the translation of the Constitution and code of laws, and replied, with true native policy, "If the thing were good, why, good would come. If the white men were unanimous, they would do something; if disunited, they would do nothing; if some whites pulled one way and some another, they would pull Fiji in the same way!" and so on. The next most important item I have for you is the arrival of the Earl of Pembroke, in the character of a shipwrecked mariner. His lordship was in his yacht Albatross, bound from Samoa to Levuka. They sighted part of the Fiji Group, supposed to be Vanua Balavu; but the weather being thick, Captain Braund stood off again, the wind being S. E. On the night of the 21st October, at 10 p. m. the vessel struck on a reef that surrounds the Island of Naku-ambauge, near Panim, and for a time the position of those on board was perilous; however the vessel drove over the reef into comparatively smooth water. The live stock and necessaries of life were landed, but the valuable collection made the last two or three months we lost, and all personal effects. The shipwrecked party remained nine days on the islands, because the Admiralty directions declared the Fijian natives cannibals, so they waited for moonlight nights to creep through the group to Ovalau after dark; as it rained heavily all the time, you may fancy it was not very pleasant for the delicate Earl. After nine days they took the lifeboat and made for Taviuni, and were about to camp for safety on Goat Island, in Soma Soma Strait, when they luckily saw the mats of the Duke of Edinburgh lying at Uarik. The Earl and party arrived in the barque on Sunday, and the noble visitor has already endeared himself to the residents by his affability. The Albatross was insured up to £100 in Auckland. The crew left to-day by the Kauri for Auckland, and the Earl, doctor, secretary and Captain Braund are waiting for the steamer Auckland. The weather has been fearfully bad, but just now it is better. Buildings are going up in all directions, and timber is pouring in from New Zealand.

From Nadi we (Times) have an account of the flogging of some natives for an assault on a white man; we had heard a report to that effect before, but waited for some well authenticated particulars, and now hasten to lay them before our readers. On the 26th ult., a report reached Nadi that a young man named Miller, of Edreketi, had been beaten by some natives; two of the settlers started for Vuda and found that it was true. It appears that Miller had bought some land that was in dispute; there is no doubt that the natives from whom he purchased the land had no right to it, and the real owners set upon him and after knocking him down kicked and otherwise maltreated him; on learning the facts of the case they went back to the settlement, telling all the white settlers to meet at the Auckland Company's store at 1 p. m.; by 11 o'clock twenty-two whites and thirty-seven Tanna men had assembled, and the avenging party marched toward the town of Vude, and halted at Messrs. Tucker and M'Kay's place, 3 miles from there till daylight, when they sent five of their number to surround the house of Ratu Josah, the head chief; after a short time the expedition rushed to the place, put guards on all the houses, and took the guilty parties (the young Miller pointed out) prisoners, handcuffed them, and led them captives to the rara, first taking possession of all the guns as well as the lalua, so that the surprised party could not sound the alarm and obtain help; the prisoners all acknowledged their guilt, and a long discussion followed as to their punishment, when it was decided to flog them. For this purpose they were led to a hill in sight of the town, made fast to trees, and well flagellated; a guard was put over the chief, with orders to shoot him at the first attempt at any outbreak made by the rest of the natives. After vengeance had been satisfied, the chiefs and teachers were assembled and a lecture read them on the enormity of the crime their townsmen had committed by laying hands on a white man, a crime that might have been punished by a man-of-war laying waste their country. The chief's son was amongst those who were flogged, and seems to have benefited by the lesson, for his father, Saravala, before this affair did not know what to do with him, but since then he and the other natives have been remarkably civil.—Australian paper.

Society in Canada.

A correspondent who writes to an Eastern paper from Montreal gives a sketch of society there as follows:

Society here is singularly different from what it is in the States. The Irish here seem a different race. At least there is a very large class of highly respectable and refined people of that nationality, many of them, too, occupying the middle ranks in life. Many of the Irish girls are Southern-looking brunettes. In fact, considering our geographical position, the number of tropic complexions among the the women is singular. A blonde, of the New England type, is as rare as a white crow. The women are all ruddier and stronger than American women, and think nothing of walking four or five miles in the bracing air of this latitude. Of course they lack the spiritualness of the American girl. Americans tell us that the position of women here is inferior to what it is with them, and very likely it is so. All the family drudgery here is done by the women. They build the fire in the morning, lift on the tea-kettle, bring the hod of coal, do all the marketing, and "run" the whole house. "Canada" girls pray for Yankee husbands, and call down exacting American wives upon the heads of their uncommodating brothers. Women have much less chance in business or the professions here than with you. In the vocations suited to her, except perhaps clerkships, she meets the cold shoulder; in the schools she gets from $300 to $500 per year. Living and education, however, are wonderfully cheap here. Board and lodgings are $3 50 and $4 a week, and music lessons from $2 to $4 per month. Amusements cost nothing because there are none. You would be surprised to see with how little of this kind of pabulum a city can do. The only theater here, the Theater Royal, is a little old affair with an English pit, and commands little respect. Only the small traveling troupes come there. The churches afford the only music we have. Once a year the Irish, Scotch, English, etc., have grand entertainments, each in honor of their nationality, when amateur talent appears in Gaelic, oratory and self-laudatory doggerel. Such an affair was St. Andrew's Day, last week, when the Scotch renewed their allegiance to the land o' cakes. We are not without lectures, however, mostly by home talent. These embrace a variety of topics, being delivered by the clergy and scholars, Professors of McGill's College, etc., and are well appreciated by the English-speaking community.

The State of France.

A month and more has passed since the Emperor of Germany announced that Peace had been made. A few days later the Bordeaux Assembly ratified the terms of peace and declared unanimously that the French Emperor was overthrown. Since then the Germans have entered Paris; the German Emperor has returned to Berlin; and the ex-Emperor of the French has arrived in England. The war between Germany and France is at an end; but the French people are not quiet. The form of Government under which France will find repose and prosperity is still undetermined. After the fall of Sedan, the Republic was proclaimed in France. But since the Bordeaux Assembly has been elected and convened, there has been no proclamation of the Republic. Since the Assembly moved to Versailles, it has in a proclamation spoke of the Government being a noble Republic. The elements, however, of which it is composed show that the Republican members are in the minority, the Orleanists, Bonapartists, and Legitimists, far out numbering them. Thiers, the President of the Assembly, is said to be an Orleanist, and as they have decided to look to the Count de Chambord, as the head of their party, the fidelity of Thiers to the Republic is doubted. The restoration of the Bonapartists is regarded as impossible everywhere except at Berlin,—and even there it is said he can only be sent back by the German Imperial army. The Prussians, however, are not very likely to interfere with the internal affairs of France if the stipulations of the Treaty be complied with. Hence, the Thiers Government, or Versailles Assembly, with all outside of Paris, except Marseilles and one or two other places of no importance, may keep up the Republic in name for a time, and then at an opportune moment place the Count de Chambord on the Throne of France. Prim and his colleagues in Spain, after the abdication of Queen Isabelle, kept the Cortes waiting for a long time before a permanent head of the nation was found in an Italian prince as King. Thiers may try to play a similar game. It is, apparently, the fear of the overthrow of the French Republic in name, that has brought on the revolution of Paris. The Parisian insurgents wish what they call a real republic, based on Communes or Municipalities. They desire to abolish Prefects and to elect the Mayor and all the members of the Commune by universal suffrage, and from each Commune to send Representatives to a General Assembly of the nation. The Versailles Government, on the contrary, has appointed Prefects in the departments,—officers who are substantially Governors of Provinces, and who appoint the Mayors; and of course from the government party. The Paris government will not submit to this; and in fact repudiates the Versailles government. But as it is only Paris with her two millions against all France, there seems to be every probability that the Versailles government will succeed, unless the revolutionary party, the Red Republicans should revolutionize the other towns of France. In the latter case, the Thiers Government will break up. But there is a far greater probability that the Reds will be beaten, for the Versailles Government has the Germans on their side, and if necessary they may use them against the Parisians. The state of France is very disturbed as might naturally be expected after the war, but the Reds are only complicating the evils. Practically, the French don't appear to be nearer to a permanent republic for France than they were when Lamartine was in power after the revolution of 1848. The present Assembly that meets at Versailles was convoked to make peace with Prussia. It doubtless will soon be dissolved, and another convoked to determine the future form of Government.

Responsible Government in New Brunswick.

On Thursday, the 16th of February, the Legislature of New Brunswick assembled at Fredericktop. On the same night, twenty-three members met at the Brayley House and pledged themselves to oppose the Government. On monday the address, which was to have been considered in the Assembly, on that day, was postponed until Tuesday. On Tuesday the Government announced their resignation and informed the House that the Governor had sent for Mr Hatheway to form a new Administration. On Wednesday afternoon, Mr. Hatheway announced the new formation, and the Legislature was prorogued to enable the the Government to mature their measures and secure the re-election of heads of Departments. Within a week was witnessed the overthrow of the Government, the demoralization of the Opposition, and a Coalition between leading gentlemen on both sides of the House, to form a Government that would command a majority of the House. A veteran legislator of New Brunswick is reported to have said that, in forty years, he had not witnessed so disgraceful a scene as that enacted in the Assembly on Wednesday last.

The following gentlemen compose the new Local Government:

Hon. T. R. Jones, President of the Executive Council;

Hon. G. L. Hatheway, Provincial Secretary;

Hon. George E. King, Attorney General;

Hon. W. M. Kelly, Board of Works;

Hon. B. R. Stevenson, Surveyor General.

Hon. Messrs. Otis and Covert, Members of the Executive Council without office.

The only elections to be held are in the cases of Messrs. Hatheway and Stevenson. Messrs. King and Kelly had tendered the resignation of their offices and their seats in the Executive, but only the latter were accepted by the Governor.

Sheriff Paul has fixed the nomination in Charlotte for Monday, 13th, polling 18th, declaration 18th March. In York March 10th, will be nomination day, and the 14th, polling, Mr. Hatheway has challenged Mr. Gough to meet at the hustings in Fredericton, and Mr. Gough has responded favorably.

Titled Irishmen.—The Knight of Kerry, Knight of Glyn, Macgillicuddy of the Reeks, and O'Connor Don, are, with The O'Donoghue, now the only persons holding the ancient titles of Irish chieftaincy, with the exception of a person calling himself The O'Gorman Mahon, whose right and title to assume this peculiar style are, so far at least as they are founded on hereditary descent, demurred to. Prior to the revolution peculiar titles of this sort existed in France.

Fresh Arrivals.—A. B. Gray has received, per steamer Pacific, large additions to his stock of dry goods, comprising silk mantle velvets, velveteen, black silks, colored satins dress goods, linens, cottons, jackets, kid gloves, skirts, umbrellas, &c., &c., together with a varied assortment of fancy small wares. DR. CHING FUN—A CARD.—To the STANDARD:—Through the medium of your paper I want to state the very great good that has been done me by Dr. Ching Fun of this city, and doing business as Lee & Co. For 24 years I suffered with nasal catarrh, the brain, which baffled the skill of three leading American physicians. Latterly bronchial affection of right lung, and my eyes became so badly affected as to be impairing of ever being cured. I placed myself on a course of treatment in the hands of Dr. Ching Fun, and after five months treatment I am a well man and feel that I cannot too highly the eminent Chinese gentleman's praises be sung, so that all my countrymen similarly affected may visit him and find relief, respectfully,

Funeral of the late Mr. McKay.

THE FUNERAL of the deceased J. G. McKay, Esq, took place yesterday afternoon from the Masonic Hall, where the procession formed and marched to St. Andrew's Church of Scotland. The cortege moved in order thus: Band of Victoria Volunteers playing "The Dead March in Saul;" deputations from the various city Lodges of Free Masons; the body, followed by eight pall bearers—J. F. McCreight, J. C. Nicholson, E. Grancini, T. Lowe, Jas. Burns, T. C. Nuttall, J. Nagle, R. H. Wilson, Esqs.; the Mayor and City Council; members of St. Andrew's Society; the Fire Department of the city, represented by delegates and members from the Hook & Ladder Co., and the Deluge and Tiger Cos. A large number of private citizens, many of whom, old Scottish friends from the country, were present to pay respect to the memory of the dead. Rev. Mr. McGregor officiated at St. Andrew's and at the grave; the last ceremonies to the departed, were administered in accordance with the Masonic ritual. On the line of procession, most of the business houses were closed and remained so until the return from the cemetery.

THE CENSUS OF 1871.—Sunday night, April 2d., the decennial numbering of the people of Great Britain and Ireland was made. The mode of taking the census was to be very similar to that adopted on the last occasion. One of her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State is empowered to take the census. The work was to be done by the Registrar-General of Births and Deaths, from whose office at Somerset House instructions have been issued to all the registrars, more than 2,000 in number, under his direction to commence their preparations by dividing their districts and appointing enumerators to take the census. Some time in the course of the week ending Saturday, April 1st., a printed form was to have been left with the occupier of every house or separate lodging, and the occupier was bound, under a penalty of not less than 20s., to fill up the same correctly with the name, sex, age, rank, condition, relation to head of family, and birthplace, of every person abiding with him on the night of Sunday, April 2nd; stating also whether any are blind, deaf, dumb, imbecile, or lunatic. These forms or schedules will be collected by the enumerators on to-day, 4th, inst., and corrected by them if found erroneous. Their contents will then be copied into books, tabulated, and a summary made and published about the beginning of June. The cost of taking the census will be paid out of the Imperial exchequer, and the scale of fees must be laid before Parliament.

ARRIVAL OF THE OLYMPIA.—The steamer Olympia arrived yesterday afternoon from Puget Sound with sixty passengers, exclusive of twenty Chinese and Indians; 33 head of cattle, 54 sheep—mutton, bread, &c. The passengers are as follows: Mrs. Lampel and infant, Miss Harmon, Miss Waldick, Miss Huntington, Miss Horton, Miss Smith, Miss Spekes, Mrs Edmonson, Miss Patton, Mrs Bentley and daughter, Coulter and wife, Dowling, J. Wood, C. Wood, Webster, Johnson, Groutbas, Scott, Bliss, Morris, Dawes, Fritz, Ensign, Smith, Dennison, McCannaham, Henedey, McCauley, Higgins, Roe, McDonald, Rogers, Folks, Bryant, Key, R. Abrahams, L. Abrahams, Wingar, Wilkinson, Leighton, Levy and 39 others.

CUT WITH A CLEAVER.—A young man named Frank Dickinson, formerly of British Columbia, butcher in the employ of Mr. S. Coulter, met with a very serious accident yesterday. While engaged in splitting and quartering beeves, at the slaughter house, he accidentally struck himself a heavy blow with the cleaver, which entered the inner calf of one leg, reaching the bone, and making a gash about three inches long. He was conveyed to his lodging, where the wound was dressed and the necessary remedies applied.—Olympia Tribune.

IN MEMORY OF.—The body of the late Councillor McKay, lay in the Masonic Hall yesterday forenoon, and was visited by many friends and acquaintances of the late gentleman. His features were but little changed the fresh color had hardly left him and his face, if anything, seemed to present a fuller appearance than before life became extict. During Sunday and yesterday, a number of flags presented token of respect for the deceased—including the City Hall, and Fire Department banners.

FROM BURRARD INLET.—The steamer Grappler, Capt. Devereaux arrived early yesterday morning from Burrard Inlet with a few passengers. She will leave Dickson, Campbell & Co.'s wharf on Wednesday afternoon, for the Skagua River. Parties desiring to take passage can procure their tickets from Messrs. Lowe & Stahlschmidt, Wharf street.

THE THEATRE.—Last evening, the theatre was well filled to witnessed the performance. By request, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was repeated, and if anything was better rendered than on Saturday evening. The next performance will take place on Thursday evening, when there will be entire change in the programme.

We call attention to the sale to take place this day at the salesroom of Messrs. J. P. Davies & Co.; there is a fine display of Granite ware, Lamps, Glassware, Crockery, Clocks, New and Second-hand Furniture, Billiard Table and Fixtures, Beds, Bedding, Spring Mattrasses, Blankets, etc, etc. etc. *

WASHINGTON TERRITORY "SCRAPS."—A survey, for purposes of railroad communication, is ordered to be made of the route between Walla Walla and Wallula. The citizens of the former place subscribed $2,000 for the survey. Complaints are made that the mail bags are at times thrown aside carelessly, at Pumphrey's, on the route between Monticello and Olympia, in order to suit the convenience of the stage passengers. The Seattle Masonic Hall is undergoing renovation. Capt. Lawson, of the Coast Survey, and lady, and Mr. Clements, Territorial Secretary, have arrived at Olympia, via Portland. We are informed, says the Intelligencer, that Fred. Drew, Esq., has been appointed Deputy Collector in the Custom House for this District, vice Col. Briggs, resigned. A convict attempted to escape from his guard at Steilacoom, and was fired upon; he escaped for a time, but was captured on his way back to have a flesh wound he had received, dressed.

SAN FRANCISCO MERCANTILE LIBRARY.—From the last report of this association, now before us, it seems that it was peculiarly unfortunate up to a very short period before the grand lottery scheme which gave it at once notoriety and relief. In the purchase of the lot and construction of the building a debt of $236,000 was incurred. To reduce this debt the most strenuous efforts were made to increase the membership; bonds were issued, but no takers were found; lectures were given, but nobody attended them; a fair was held, but it failed to attract money to the treasury. A mortgage on the property was foreclosed and it was sold by the sheriff at public auction, when Camilla Urso gave a grand musical festival for its benefit, from which a handsome sum was realized. The lottery soon after followed, from which was netted a profit of $310,120. Out of this was paid the indebtedness; a handsome sum remaining for the purchase of books, etc.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY.—In San Francisco this day was unanimously observed as a holiday. At 11 a. m. the streets through which the procession was to pass, were crowded with people. The procession halted at the City Hall, and was received by the Mayor and other Municipal officers. The procession afterwards passed in review by the Grand Marshal of the day, and were dismissed, after which they repaired to the California Theatre, where an oration was delivered by the Rev. Wm. Foley. Good order prevailed throughout the city during the day, and the parade was one of the finest which has ever taken place in California.

County Court.

(Schultz vs. Copperman.)

EDITOR STANDARD.—Please correct your report of this case as tried in the County Court on the 31st March last. The defendant was sued for a bag and the contents said to be left by the plaintiff with the defendant. Your report suggests that the action was for "goods sold and delivered." This is an evident unintentional mistake, but in justice to the defendant who left the Court free of any imputation, be so good as to correct the error.

CALIFORNIA.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—There was a match game of billiards last night at Platt's Hall, between Dion and Rudolph for $2000. The game was called at 20 minutes before 9 o'clock, and the players took their positions, Dion played to lay off and the ball went in the right hand pocket. Rudolph took Dion's ball out of the pocket and commenced to measure between his own ball and the cushion, Dion objected to that, saying the game had commenced and appealed to the referee, who threw down his book and left the hall. There was much confusion, discussion and delay; after about half an hour it was finally settled, on Wm. Shear being appointed referee, and the game commenced again, Dion taking the first shot and stopping at 12 o'clock.

South American News.

PANAMA, March 7.—News from Bogota, Columbia, of February 16th, say the revolution in the State of Bouca is not ended. Another battle has been fought on the boundary line between the provinces of Saota and Susecon. The revolutionists were defeated and compelled to evacuate the Capital. The legitimate Government bids fair to triumph. Regestere, Secretary of State, has charge of the Government until Peres returns. Congress is in session. Murillo will probably be elected President. The remaining States of the Union are not, likely to be disturbed by the troubles in Bouca.

Advices from Chili report that there was a fight between the troops and 300 Indians, in which the latter were defeated. Mogarjos, ex-President, barely escaped with his life, the Indians pursuing him over the frontier into Peru. Of his escort of thirty-six, only five accompanied him to Lima; the rest having been slain. The Indians committed terrible atrocities after the battle of La Paz; many bodies were mutilated. Morales, in command of the revolutionists, resigned after the battle, but was subsequently proclaimed Provisional Governor of Bolivia.

Guerrilla warfare is kept up.

The new Government of Bolivia has been established and has promised to maintain friendship with Peru.

The War Feeling in the Australian Colonies.

The Commission appointed to enquire into and report upon the best means to be adopted for a military defence of the colony have sent in their report to the government, but the nature of their recommendations is kept secret at present. It is reported, however, that the Government have sent home for batteries of artillery of sufficient power to cope with any ironclad ship of war which may pay a hostile visit to this port; and that they have also sent home orders for a large number of the Martini-Henry rifles. A number of men have also been set to work in constructing roads to Bradley's Head, on the northern side of the harbour, and to La Perouse's monument at Botany Bay. Beyond this, however, nothing has been done toward preparing for a defence of the colony. The news received by the last mail regarding the Franco-Prussian war has had the effect of removing a great deal of apprehension with regard to the probability of an attack from an enemy. When the war first broke out, a militia bill was promised by the Government For the present, however, the measure is held in abeyance. In answer to a question with regard to the military defence of the colony, asked by Mr Parkes in the Legislative Assembly, the Colonial Secretary, Mr. Cowper, answered—"No militia bill has as yet, been prepared by the Crown Law officers, and I have not pressed for the preparation of it, because circumstances have altered so much since the breaking out of the present war. The spirit for Volunteering is on the increase, the applications for enrolling being greatly in excess of what may be found necessary. The Government considers it to be of importance that no expensive organization should be determined upon without the fullest deliberation. The Commanding-officer of the Volunteers has been engaged in endeavouring to enrol companies of pensioners or discharged soldiers, but not, as yet, with any great success. He has, however, taken steps for further action in the event of the news from England being of such a character as to give ground for apprehension. So far as I can gather, Colonel Richardson is rather in favor of a regular force, though limited in numbers, than a militia. The Government is unwilling to incur any heavy expenditure which might prove to be needless; but will adopt such steps as, after consultation with the Defensive Commission, may appear to be proper."—Sydney Herald.

A Precedent and an Important Point Decided.

The following is a copy of an opinion of the English Crown Offices in points of dispute with regard to the power of the Executive and assembly of New Brunswick to dismiss from office, the clerk of the Legislative Council without the concurence of that body. The question was submitted, by Earl Kimberley Secretary of State for the Colonies to whom the matter had been referred from Ottowa:

That by the 64th and 88th Sections of 30 and 31 Vic. Cap. 3, the powers of the Executive Government and of the Legislature of New Brunswick were, unless and until altered in accordance with the power of the Act, expressly continued as they had existed before its passing, except so far as the Act itself was inconsistant with them. We do not find in these appers that anything has been done to change the powers either of the Executive or Legislature of New Brunswick since the passing of the British North America Act. That Act itself in respect to the matter now referred to, makes no change in them.

We concur, therefore, in the opinion expressed by the Minister of Justice of the Dominion, that the authorities of the Dominion have no right to interfere.

It appears further that Mr. Fotsford was appointed to hold during the pleasure of the Lieutenant Governor of New Brunswick, and it is not suggested that this was an illegal or improper form of appointment. The form of the appointment implies and assumes the right of removal in the Lieutenant Governor who appoints, and the Lieutenant Governor has now exercised his right with the advice of his Ministry. It seems to us that he was acting within his undoubted right and that there is no ground for the claims put forward by the Legislative Council of New Brunswick.

BEECHER ON DANCING.—God intended man to be perfect, with a strong physical organization that would keep the machinery going, and animal propensities that give power to, instead of controlling the intellect. So it is with amusements; ministers of my class say 'Beware of gaiety; beware of frivolity;' and we lose sight of the fact that we have made no provision for gaiety.

As a man's back bone has a cartilage between every joint, to prevent injury, so recreation should be put above every hard duty, that it may have something to cushion upon.

Amusement should be for those who need it. Take dancing as an instance Now this is most indulged in by the young, but they do not need it. They are muscular and strong enough. It is the ministers, the deacons and the elders that should dance, because they require it as an exercise.

Says the London Daily News: "At a glance Napoleon would have seen where to plant the battery that would have scattered Moltke's finest plans like so many cobwebs. A glance, and his columns would have fallen like thunderbolts on Saxon and Bravarian, and struck the German army in two as the scythe chops a snake. The road was there by which that critical march could be taken; the road was there by which those guns could be dragged into position; but the great man did not come from east or west, and at last the worn-out nation yielded Paris and threw up its arms."
